Welcome to International Regulatory Commission

This is the official web site of the International Regulatory Commission. Since our inception in 2002, we have remained vigilant in our efforts to regulate the International securities industry, firmly and fairly in a transparent and accountable manner. Our mission is to effectively oversee and regulate the activities of the securities and capital markets, to protect investors while strengthening public and international confidence in the integrity of those markets. As we embrace the challenges of the millennium, investor protection through education remains our primary objective. We are committed to the principle that investors should have access to the tools they need to make informed decisions. In this vein, we will continue to develop a public presence, and through the use of the media and published materials to impart knowledge and confidence in financial products.

In our endeavor to keep abreast in an ever-changing global regulatory environment and to ensure a contribution in improving the efficiency and conduct of international markets the Commission became a member of the International Regulatory Commission (IRC) and the Council of Securities Regulators in 2003 and 2004 respectively.

As we look ahead, we remain committed to building a dynamic regulatory regime that not only best serves the interest of international participants but maintains the standards necessary to conform to international benchmarks.
